REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES

Lincoln-Roosevelt Republican League versus the Regular Organization—The Contest Last Tuesday

Entrenched in its stronghold, where it could depend upon the support of nearly all the public officials, from governor down to the keeper of the cuspidors, and backed by that hoary dispenser of patronage and power, the Southern Pacific Railway Company, the regular Republican organization pretended to scoff at the idea of danger from the league with the long name. Toward the close of the campaign preceding the primary election, however, it became evident that there was some trepidation in the ranks of the forces behind the long-established earthworks, and missiles of the Chinese variety were thrown recklessly into the columns of the "insurgents." Monday developed surprises, and the returns, when received, a day or two later, showed that something had happened. At this time, with a few precincts in the country not reported, it is evident that the Lincoln-Roosevelters have won a great victory. They have not swept everything before them, but in the first battle of the campaign they have won a notable victory. Reports from San Francisco indicate they they will control the state convention, having a majority of the delegates; this, however, is almost incredible, and but few of the enthusiasts of the league expected any such result. The result in San Francisco is a surprising victory for the reformers. In that city they secured 53 out of 67 delegates. The turning down of such rank S. P. attaesmen as Postmaster Fiske and State Senator Wolfe is very gratifying to the free government forces. In Los Angeles county the result was close. The anti-machine forces secured 43 of the 103 delegates, and carried five of the nine assembly districts. The control of a majority of the assembly districts will give the Lincoln-Rooseveiters a similar majority in the state committee, as thta is made up of one member to every assembly district. Its control of the county is not impossible, as some good men have been elected by the regulars, who cannot be deepnded on to take S. P. orders through Walter Parker. The situation in our own assembly district (the sixty-seventh) is interesting. Pasadena, voting by itself, elected neven Lincoln-Roosevelt delegates. The country portion of the district, comprising Glendale, Tropico, Burbank, Sawtelle, Calabasas, a portion of Santa Monica and all the northern portion of the county, elected five regular organization candidates. The Lincoln-Roosevelt League carried Glendale by 47 to 22, Tropico by 69 to 22, but was beaten in all the other precincts. Burbank and Newhall, with their old-time devotion to the S. P. machine, voted the organization ticket solidly, there being no league ticket in the field. La Canyada enjoys the same proud distinction.

It was merely a lack of organization that lost these precincts to the reformers. Taken all in all, it was a great triumph. It will cause the thoughtless voter to think. The country precincts are not likely hereafter to vote solidly for the S. P. organization, simply because a few local leaders who hold down small jobs, or hope to get them, desire them to do so. The battle is only begun, and if the Southern Pacific machine is not completely knocked out at the county primary in August, and the convention controlled by the Lincoln-Roosevelters, there is something the matter with the signs of the times!

IN THE TOWNSHIP COURT.

Justice Melrose, sitting in the city hall Thursday last, sentenced Wilbur Chatnam, aged 18, to 90 days in the county jail for enticing another youth to leave home and become a cowboy or something in Arizona. The children got as far away as Pasadena, when their financial resources became exhausted, and, with a little parental and official pressure exerted, they returned. The judge, however, after giving the young man a severe lecture and some good advice, allowed him to go on probation, with the understanding that he report to City Marshal Miller every two weeks and go to work. Mr. R. G. Doyle, who was present at the trial, agreed to find work for him. The boys have been devouring trashy literature in undigestible quantities, and the elder one has acquired a reputation in the community, which renders him an object of suspicion. He will have a chance to live this down if he wishes to do so.

SCHOONER LOST—LOCAL LUMBER YARD AFFECTED.

A dispatch from Newport, Mendocino county, announces the loss of the steam schooner Minnie E. Kelton, lumber laden, from Aberdeen to San Francisco, in a gale Friday night, May 1. Ten or twelve of the crew lost their lives, the captain and ten sailors making their escape. The dispatch states that the schooner lies at anchor, half wrecked, a mile off shore between Yaquina Head and Cape Foulweather.

The schooner is the property of the Ganahl Lumber Company, and was loaded with 400,000 feet of Oregon lumber, destined for the Glendale yard. The proability is that the cargo was entirely lost, although the vessel may possibly be saved.

[We are not, of course, responsible for the views expressed in this department. Correspondence on live topics is invited.—ED.]

Editor of the News: Will you kindly say to your readers and to your recent correspondent, William Mitchell, who inquires, "Is Prohibition Wise?" that Mr. Leavitt considers the total annihilation of the beverage liquor traffic, or as near thereto as possible, is not only wise, but that any other policy, in view of the last century's experience, is the sheerest folly.

He regards this question as of the greatest importance and urgency as regards health, home, education, religion society, finance, politics, in short, the well-being of the people individually and collectively, here and hereafter. It is a step preliminary and necessary to a right solution of all other problems.

And tell them whenever the News can afford me the space I shall be happy to avail myself of the opportunity to tell why I think as I do.

Yours truly,

EDGAR LEAVITT.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Miss Hazel Wheatley of Seattle has entered the ninth year.

Mr. Steele of the Benj. H. Sanborn & Co., visited the school on Thursday.

Dan. McPeak, Munroe Walton, Geo. Benson, Ray Morrow, played tennis with the Alhambra High School boys at the East San Gabriel Country Club courts last Saturday at 10 o'clock. Each of our players won easily from his opponent in singles, and they also won the events in doubles. The baseball game scheduled with Alhambra for the afternoon was postponed on account of the rain.

Mr. Moyse and the trustees spent Friday afternoon visiting the high schools at Hollywood, Alhambra and South Pasadena. The trustees will ask the several architects interested to submit competitive plans for the new High School building to be erected at once.

Friday morning the girls of Sophomore class had a May Day Festival and decorated all teachers' desks with a beautiful display of flowers. They did the same last year.

Winifred Saddler visited school on Monday and was given her big G which she won in basket ball.

Girls' Basket Ball team had their photograph taken on Friday last. Each athletic team will have a picture taken and make a gift to the school.

De Lano Mandolin and Guitar Club gave a concert last Friday night under auspices of Junior class. It was an unusually pleasing entertainment and met with enthusiastic applause. The club was very kind in giving encores. The success financially was shown by the net sum of $16 for the class. The money will be used for entertaining the Seniors during the coming commencement festivities.

Baseball game Saturday of this week with El Monte. This is a regular league game. Boys will have new suits, purchased through the generous contributions of Glendale friends.

The Glendale Baseball team beat the Alhambras on Thursday by a score of 6 to 3.

GLENDALE, CAL., MAY 9, 1908

The Examiner reporter who broke into an artist's studio and stole some photographic films at San Diego, has been acquitted.

It's awfully hard for a newspaper man to do wrong.

What with bond issues, primary elections and stockholders' annual meetings, have you acquired the voting habit? If so, how would you like to try it on a city hall proposition? Don't all speak at once.

On the 26th of January, 1907, in the columns of this ought-to-be influential journal, we nominated William H. Taft for president of the United States. We might have done it sooner, but we don't like long campaigns.

The Los Angeles Times cheerfully announces in its headlines that the "Republicans win" at the primaries. As the contest referred to was between Republicans only, the nerve of the latest newspaper convert to the Southern Pacific cause is refreshing.

The proposed highway from Redlands to the sea, which has been practically agreed upon by the Highway Commission, is to come through Glendale. Bear this in mind in making your improvements, and don't clutter up the course with hen coops and things.

The Lincoln-Roosevelt Republican League

This organization is before the public on its merits and the proper question for consideration in reference to it is in regard to the principles upon which it is founded.

The personality of its leaders is a matter of interest, their actions are legitimate subjects for criticism; but the essential thing after all is to ascertain the reasons for its existence and whether it will probably accomplish the results which it claims to be struggling for.

The reason for its existence is the undisputable control of the Republican party of California by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. For something like half a century this corporation has dominated the ruling party in the state, whichever it happened to be, created laws and officials and governed at its own sweet will. We have a Railroad Commission which is popularly supposed to regulate freight and fares to some extent, but which as a matter of fact never does anything at all. It is the policy of the railroad company to "charge all that the traffic will bear;" a very simple arrangement which is accomplished by finding the value of an article at the point of shipment and at the place of destination and taking the difference for freight.

The claim is made by Councilman Wallace of Los Angeles, that in six years the Southern Pacific Company made forty millions of dollars out of the oil producers of the state by refusing them a rate which would enable them to get more than twenty or twenty-one cents a barrel for oil, the railroad being the principal purchaser—the forty millions of profits representing the difference between the cost of coal and of oil. Mr. Wallace is advocating the principles of the League, and is not a "disgruntled office seeker."

This is made possible by the ability of the railroad company through its political agents to control the legislature and secure appointments to public office of men who are acceptable to it, whom it can control. Its control of the Railroad Commissioners, the State Board of Equalization and many of the Boards of Supervisors of the state, is a matter of common knowledge.

Under these circumstances it would seem to be the plain duty of the good citizen who happens to believe in the principles of the Republican party to avail himself of any opportunity that offers to get rid of this octopus which is making popular government a farce in our state. This can be done by supporting the opposition to the organization which depends for its control of the party solely upon the backing of the railroad corporation which has held the state in its grip ever since it came into existence.

The primary which has just been held is most encouraging in its results. At this time we are not informed as to the complete result. The probability is that the railroad organization won throughout the state at large. We expected no different outcome. That the League won in San Francisco and appears to have won in Los Angeles county is glory enough for a starter. It looks very much to an unprejudiced observer as if the control of California by the railroad company has about reached its limit.

Prohibition

The idea that the Prohibition party is about to turn the world upside down and sweep the liquor traffic out of existence, is not new. For fifty years at least, in the United States, a party of devoted theorists have cherished this belief and held on to it in the face of many discouragements.

In 1851 the Maine liquor law went into effect and for over half a century the liquor traffic has been illegal in that state. About the time that Maine under the leadership of Neal Dow adopted this law, a number of other states tried similar enactments, but the Pine Tree state alone held on to the law enacted to suppress the traffic in strong drink.

It might naturally be supposed that if there was in the prohibitory idea the virtue that its proponents claimed and still claim for it, it would not have taken over fifty years for it to have gained the success which it seems to have achieved recently. The American people are not slow to adopt laws which are demonstrated to be advisable. It would be difficult, we believe, to demonstrate that the recent wave of sumptuary legislation which has swept a number of states before it and literally landed them high and dry on the lee shore of a Platonian Republic, indicates any greater relative success of the scheme than was achieved over fifty years ago. It was not a great "moral awakening" that forced Prohibition upon those states in the south that have recently placed the laws upon their statute books; it was done purely on the basis of expediency. In South Carolina it follows in the wake of an even more radical experiment, the State Dispensary idea, which produced such a crop of scandal. It requires a painful stretch of the imagination to see a success made in enforcing prohibitory laws in a state where public officials have been shown to be generally corrupt.

There is one vital fact too generally overlooked by the enthusiasts who think that human laws can work out any radical reform in the morals of a people, and that is that no law can rise higher in its results than the general level of the people upon whom it depends for enforcement. And when the people are educated up to the point of enforcing reformatory laws, the necessity for the laws has passed.

The basis of our laws is the jury system, and when juries are out of sympathy with the laws, their enforcement is an impossibility.

The state of Illinois furnishes a striking object lesson in proof of this statement. That state has had for several years a law prohibiting the opening of saloons on Sunday, but juries cannot be obtained that will make the law effective.

California once had a Sunday closing law, but it could not be enforced for the same reason that prevents Illinois from closing the saloons on the first day of the week.

The Prohibition party is a political party which just now is gaining that accretion which always attaches to the political movement that gives superficial promise of success. As a political party we regard it as simply on a par with other political parties, all of which have for their ostensible object the material betterment of the condition of humanity. As for its being a great moral movement, its adherents may lay to their souls that flattering unction if they will, but the fact of its purely political character will attach to it just the same.

As for its future, every man will prophesy according to his point of view, but we cannot see for it anything but spasmodic and ephemeral success. It will be tried in the future as it has been in the past, and as in the past, it will be found wanting. But altho this will be its history, it cannot be written down a failure. The agitation of the undeniable wrongs of the liquor traffic will be followed by good results, altho not by such as the agitators desire. Their efforts will result in good, but not the particular measure or kind of good that they fondly hope to achieve. Already there is talk among the liquor men of "reforming the saloon." We believe it will be reformed, but it will not be extirpated.

Section 2. Mr. G. W. Phelan, one of the Glendale pioneers, called at the News office this week. Mr. Phelan, in company with Messrs. Byram, Patterson and Coleman, bought about 120 acres in the Childs tract, on the east side of Glendale avenue, in June, 1883.

The pretty rooms were gay with blossoms and babies, and the entire afternoon was a most happy one. A delicious menu, dainty in every detail, was one of the pleasures offered. Another was a pretty present for each tiny guest as a souvenir of the first party held in the new home of their hostess.

The meeting was adjourned until next Monday, 8 p. m., in order that the remainder of the trustees might be elected after long deliberation. The meeting will be held in the Presbyterian Church. Let all interested be present.

Mr. Thomas O. Pearce has just returned from a two months' visit to Missouri, Kansas, Colorado and Oklahoma. Mr. Pearce is a close observer of conditions, and reports the people generally prosperous and crops good, except in some portions of western Kansas and eastern Colorado, where there was a shortage of rainfall until recently. When he left Oklahoma there had been heavy rains, and streams were running full, and the rain, although delayed, would be in time to be of great benefit to crops in general. Mr. Pearce was formerly familiar with the portions of Oklahoma where the greatest development has taken place in the last few years, and expresses astonishment at the wonderful work which has been accomplished. Miles of country which was five or six years ago a comparative desert has been transformed into farms of great productiveness, and great stretches of a lonesome country has been converted into well-populated communities.

The Tuesday Afternoon Club committee on nominations for officers for the ensuing year met on Thursday afternoon with the chairman, Mrs. E. D. Goode. If present plans carry this pioneer literary society of Glendale will inaugurate a year of such interest as the club has not yet known. A suitable club room, bright and pleasant, a literary program of real worth and interest, interspersed with charmingly planned social affairs which will fill out the club year with happy events for members and patrons, are some of the good things coming. Uplifting study, literary treats, sociability and "peace and good will" are assured. Important departments will be the literary, the philanthropic and the civics. Enthusiasm for all this has so infused new life and activity along the lines of club work that the year is bound to be a success.

Plans are completed for Reciprocity Day, when there will be a grand reception and fine musical program at the Country Club house, Tuesday afternoon, from 2 until 5.

NEW POSTOFFICE BUILDING.

Mr. W. A. Anderson has shown us the plans of the new building that he is to erect for postoffice purposes in accordance with his proposition to the postoffice department, which was accepted some time ago, the change to be made July 1st next.

The building will be erected on the lot located on the south side of Fourth street, cornering on the alley midway between Isabel and Jackson streets, opposite the Sanitarium. It will be a one-story brick structure, 50 feet square, constructed with a view to adding another story in the near future. The front will be of pressed brick, with plate-glass windows. The east half will be reserved for store purposes, the postoffice occupying the west half, at the corner of the alley. The postoffice quarters will be commodious enough for the accommodation of the probably rapidly increasing business of Glendale for a few years to come, being 25 feet wide by 50 feet deep. There will be general delivery, registry and carriers' windows, wall desk and other conveniences in the large foyer for the accommodation of the public, and ample room inside for even the demands of the Christmas holidays.

THE RAILROAD SITUATION IN A NUTSHELL.

Editor of The News:

We are in a position to guarantee the operation of cars from the intersection of Third street and Glendale avenue to the Eagle Rock line within 90 days after a bonus of $3500 has been secured, and a right of way obtained between the points mentioned. The deeds to the right of way from Eagle Rock to our city limits have been signed to be in full force and effect when the supervisors abandon the Eagle Rock road which they have agreed to do next Monday.

Should the supervisors fail to do this the people have agreed to give a right of way along one side of said road. Now all we are asking from the people of Glendale in the matter of rights of way is permission to lay the track on Third street, agreeing to lay the rails down to the surface of the road, as they are laid in Los Angeles. The street need not be widened; there are railway lines in the city on streets no wider than Third street, where the traffic is four times what it will ever be on our street. I am more than surprised that some of our citizens should be refusing permission to even let the railroad pass their places on the street.

In my opinion this is the last opportunity the center and east side of Glendale will have, to secure a road for some years, and I assure the public that this will be my last effort in that direction. Mr. Blackburn and myself have worked for you faithfully for more than two years and we now have a proopsition which is much better for all parts of the town than the first one, and at one half the price. If we reject this people will believe that Glendale does not desire any more railway facilities.

E. D. GOODE.

BAD ACCIDENT.

Last Tuesday afternoon a horse attached to the delivery wagon of Petersen & Fraley, while being driven by Otto Amberg, ran away on Kenneth Road, North Glendale. Mr. Amberg was thrown out and sustained a fracture of the leg below the knee. He was taken to the residence of Mr. Canfield, near-by, and the limb was set by Dr. R. E. Chase. Later he was removed to the Good Samaritan Hospital, Los Angeles, where he is doing as well as could be expected. The horse ran for a block or so, when the wagon went into a ditch, resulting in quite serious damage to the vehicle.

SERIOUS ILLNESS OF E. T. BYRAM.

One of Glendale's hitherto most active pioneers, Mr. E. T. Byram, is seriously ill at his residence on Glendale avenue, above Third street. Mr. Byram has been suffering for a considerable time from a peculiar disease, one of the results of which has been the blindness which has afflicted him for the past four or five years.

A gradual deterioration and hardening of the veins has taken place, and brought about his present serious condition. His active brain is still capable, but his vitality is gradually diminishing.

BUSINESS CHANGE.

R. A. Blackburn and J. C. Pierce have bought out the Glendale shoe store, Mr. Sauer being compelled to retire from business on account of his health.

The new firm is putting in new stock, and will give the people of Glendale the best that the market affords at Los Angeles prices.

SCHOOL AFFAIRS.

On May 23rd, from 2 to 6 p. m., at the Grammar school building on 4th street, the voters will have two elections, and two separate duties to perform. They will decide whether the grammar school district vote bonds amounting to $15,000 for the purpose of purchasing lots, building a schoolhouse, furnishing and insuring the same, and purchasing apparatus. They will also vote on the question of levying a tax of $1000 to be expended for general school purposes during the year. The question of a site for the new school building is yet undetermined. The first meeting of voters held to determine the matter was very harmonious and voted to locate it in the vicinity of Lomita Park. This being done, the people of Lomita Park began to disagree among themselves, and so far have been unable to settle upon any particular spot for the building. Another meeting was held last Tuesday evening at the city hall, and a large assortment of personal views was in evidence. A committee of three was appointed to take the matter up and report at an adjourned meeting to be held next Tuesday evening; but, as far as can be ascertained at this time, no progress has been made in reconciling the various conflicting ideas. The first site suggested at Seventh and Lomita, was generally conceded to be an ideal one, but it was also acknowledged that it was not a fair thing to put a public institution close to a rather costly residence now in course of construction. A site on the north side of Fourth street west of the Sanitarium, has been suggested as has also one on the Livingston Tract, north of Second street, east of Brand boulevard.

As it is very desirable that the new building be ready for use when the fall term of school begins, it is to be hoped that the decision may not be long deferred.

COUNTRY CLUB RECEPTION.

At the Country Club's rooms last Saturday evening a reception was given to a class of about 30 new members. The affair was in keeping with the high standard set by the club for its social functions, and was a great success. The spacious quarters were almost crowded with members and their families and a few other guests. Dancing and cards served to pass the time away, and refreshments were served about 11 o'clock.

FIVE HUNDRED CLUB.

The jolly Five Hundred Club met on Tuesday with Mrs. W. S. Traphagen, on Louise street. The home was decorated with red and white roses. The hostess extended genial hospitality when at the close of the day she served refreshments, Mrs. C. H. Newton presiding at the punch bowl.

SATURDAY'S SCORE AT GUN CLUB.

Two hundred yard range (possible 50)—L. Andrews, 46; Mrs. L. Andrews, 40; A. C. Munson, 36.

Two hundred yard range (possible 25)—L. Andrews, 23; Mrs. L. Andrews, 20; Miss M. A. Cross, 20; L. W. Chobe, 19; I. T. McClellan, 19; A. C. Munson, 18; E. V. Parker, 16; Dr. R. E. Chase, 15.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

While assisting a neighbor to clean out a well adjoining the property owned by Supervisor Patterson at Burbank, Thursday last, Mr. Bickett, manager for several years of Mr. Patterson's ranch, was buried by a cave-in of the well, the body being recovered some hours later and taken to Glendale.

CARD OF THANKS.

Having sold the Glendale shoe store to Messrs. Blackburn and Pierce, I desire to thank the people of Glendale for their patronage and to recommend to them that they extend the same liberal support to my successors.

GLENDALE, TROPICO AND BURBANK AS VIEWED BY THE EXAMINER.

Last Wednesday's Examiner contained a very fair and appreciative article on our section, the most of which is here presented.

The first town at the mouth of the valley is Tropico. This little place is beauty itself, with its long streets, lined on either side with immense pepper trees, umbrellas, pines and stately eucalyptus, while numerous avenues are adorned with wide-spreading palms. Here and there can be found small acreage plots of productive orange, peach, lemon, apricot and plum trees, which add greatly to the value of the community as a home center. Tropico is a modern little town. It has stores of sufficient size and variety to meet the needs of every resident.

The western portion of Tropico is gradually developing into a manufacturing center. In the section are located the Western Art Tile Company, which manufactures plain and art tile, terra cotta, brick tile, roof tile, etc.; the Los Angeles box factory, which manufactures all kinds of berry boxes and baskets, and the Marple Art Tile and Mantel Company, manufacturers and artistic decorators of everything in tile.

On Tropico avenue is located the Tropico laundry and the Tropico Manufacturing Company, the managers of which are experts in all kinds of wood work. The latest addition to this section is the Tropico Paint Company, which is located on the San Fernando road.

GOOD SCHOOL SYSTEM.

In the educational line the school facilities of this place are of the best The new $20,000 grammar school is equipped with an efficient corps of teachers under the principal, Mrs. Martha McClure, and is large enough to accommodate the grammar school pupils of growing Tropico for years to come. The high school pupils of this place attend the Glendale Union high school, which is but a short distance north.

The social life of Tropico has not been neglected, but has been encouraged; it is one of the town's greatest assets. All sections of the town work together with the greatest harmony. The religious side of life has been well taken care of. The Methodist, Presbyterian and German Baptist denominations each have a home and the Catholics plan to erect a church in the near future.

About a mile to the north of Tropico is the center of Glendale. Glendale was incorporated as a city of the sixth class in 1906. Electric cars run every half hour from Los Angeles to the fine new $5,000 Pacific Electric depot here.

On Brand boulevard, along which runs the electric line, there has sprung up quite a business center, consisting of three large pressed brick blocks, which contain many stores of various kinds, office rooms and the Masonic hall.

Two other large brick business blocks are in the course of construction. The Glendale Union high school, where about 250 pupils are enrolled, is located on the corner of Brand boulevard and Fourth street. The towns represented in this Union high school district are Glendale, Tropico, West Glendale, Eagle Rock, Ivanhoe and La Crescenta.

April 28 last the residents of this district voted bonds amounting to $60,000 for high school purposes, the present building being too small for the rapidly increasing enrollment.

The magnificent home of the Glendale Country Club, of which L. C. Brand is president, is found on the corner of Third street and Brand boulevard. This structure was erected by the citizens of Glendale a little over two years ago at the expense of $15,000.

The western portion of the town is newly populated, and the homes in that locality are all architecturally beautiful and strictly modern. The East Glendale business section is located principally on and near the corner of Fourth street and Glendale avenue. This locality is where the center of Glendale was situated before the electric line came into the valley.

The public improvements made in Glendale since incorporation are worthy of mention. Nearly every street in the city has been graded, oiled, curbed, sidewalked and beautified with trees of various kinds. A fire department has been organized and apparatus to the amount of $5,000 purchased. A large public school has been erected and another will soon be built. The city of Glendale is now conducting a public library, which was established by the Ladies' Tuesday Afternoon Club.

The little city has Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Episcopalian and Seventh Day Adventist Churches. Besides numerous social events each week there are the regular meetings of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, the P. E. O., the Rebekahs, Masons, Odd Fellows, United Woodmen, Good Templars, Foresters and Fraternal Brotherhood lodges and others.

Daily express and freight reach Glendale over the Southern Pacific, Salt Lake and Pacific Electric lines, which run through the town. There are numerous water companies here, and the residents are furnished with an abundance of water. Electric lights are enjoyed by many residents.

Several blocks south of Fourth street is situated beautiful Lomita Park, with its streets lined with palms and tall eucalptus trees with flower-laden yards and vine-covered bungalows. This park is the favorite retreat for a number of Los Angeles' actors, and there several have erected pretty homes.

Four miles to the northwest of Glendale is located the promising little town of Burbank, with a population of from 500 to 700.

Burbank is rapidly taking the place of Tropico as the leading strawberry section of the valley. The people of that town are anxiously looking forward to the time when the promised extension of the Glendale electric line will be built to Burbank, which will connect the northern town to Los Angeles with a ride of about forty-five minutes.

The chief industry of the valley is raising strawberries. For years Tropico has been popular for its "Tropico beauty" strawberry. Last season the Berry Growers' Association of Tropico and Glendale shipped 2,367 tons of this berry from the valley. This represents 6,312,815 baskets.

There are about 1,200 acres of strawberries and 400 acres of raspberries in the association. The net business of the association last year was $211,663.73. The main packing house is in Tropico, while branch packing houses are being conducted at Burbank and Arcadia.

SIXTY-SEVENTH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

It was called a convention, but as it is customary to leave the holding of conventions until after the primary elections have passed upon the question of who shall constitute the delegates to the same, the meeting held in Glendale Saturday last was merely an assembly district caucus, which made recommendations to the primaries. Heretofore precinct caucuses have been held to form tickets to be voted at the primary elections, where delegates were elected to attend assembly district conventions, which elected the delegates to the state and congressional conventions. However, one form is about as cumbersome as the other and sufficiently confusing to the average man who takes no special interest in politics. There are 16 or 17 precincts in this assembly district outside of Pasadena. A number of these were not represented at the caucus of Saturday, although the delegate from Sawtelle had three or four in his pocket in the form of proxies. Among the delegates present from outside precincts were the following: A. S. Hubbard, Acton; Messrs. Fischer and Radcliff, Burbank; Messrs. Williams and Bowers, Eagle Rock; L. K. Westcott, Ivanhoe; Mr. Merrill, La Canyada; Mr. Butterworth, Lancaster; Mr. Erwin, Newhall; Messrs. Waite, Maclag and Millen, San Fernando; Messrs. Schultz, Lupkin, Whitson and Avery, Sawtelle; D. E. Sutton, Sunland; G. C. Melrose, Tropico.

County Committeeman Wilmot Parcher presided. Committees on Credentials and Nominations were appointed. The Committee on Nominations having made the recommendation, there were nominated to represent the district in the convention at Sacramento, if ratified by the primary election on Tuesday, Henry Schultz, Sawtelle; W. F. Erwin, Newhall; R. P. Waite, San Fernando; J. N. Metcalf, Glendale; W. L. Bowers, Eagle Rock.

The following resolution was adopted:

"The Republicans of the 67th Assembly District, in convention assembled, hereby declare in favor of the nomination by the national Republican convention of a successor to our present Chief Executive who is committed to a continuance of the principles of the Republican party as inaugurated and adhered to by President Roosevelt and his cabinet. We realize that there are a great many men in the Republican party well and ably qualified for the grave responsibilities of the Presidency of the United States, but we feel that the choice of the large majority of the Republicans of this country points distinctly and unmistakably to the Hon. William H. Taft as the one man most eminently qualified for the exalted dignity of the Chief Executive of this republic. Appreciating his high moral and intellectual endowments, and recognizing in him a statesman of the first magnitude, pre-eminently fitted, by reason of his remarkable services in the judicial, diplomatic and administrative branches of the government for the world-wide duties incumbent upon the Chief Magistrate of this great nation, we enthusiastically declare ourselves in favor of William H. Taft, for President of the United States, and we instruct the delegates of the Republican State convention from the 67th Assembly District to use their best endeavors to secure the election of the delegates to the national convention from California, pledged to William H. Taft for the Presidential nomination; and the said delegates are hereby further instructed, when in said convention assembled at Sacramento, to vote in favor of the indorsement by said convention of the Hon. William H. Taft of Ohio for President."

The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition

(Special Correspondence)

Seattle.—The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, which will be held in Seattle, opening June 1 and closing October 15, 1909, is now fifty per cent. completed. Since ground was formally broken for the big Pacific world's fair on June 1, 1907, the work on the exposition has been rushed by the management. That the exposition will be completed in every detail on its opening day is assured by the fact that the work is now six months ahead of that of the Lewis and Clarke exposition at Portland, which was ready for visitors when the gates swung open.

All the work of the grading and clearing, the cutting and laying out of avenues, circles and plazas has been finished and most of the large buildings and many small ones have been started or contracted for. The administration building has been finished for eight months. The manufacturers building is ninety per cent. completed, while the agricultural palace, a twin structure, is rapidly nearing the finishing touch stage.

The Oregon building will be the first State structure finished at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. The building will be finished within a month.

Henry Roltaire, the famous illusionist, will have his large concession, the Creation, at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exjosition. The spectacle depicts the creation of the world as described in the book of Genesis.

Frederick Neil Innes, the noted band leader, is director of the bureau of music for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. The musical program will consist of many distinct features which were not presented at former expositions.

The Washington State Federation of Woman's Clubs will have a $10,000 building at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. The Washington State commission set aside the funds for the building and the clubs will furnish it and install the exhibits.

The Gjoa, the ship in which Capt. Roald Amundsen made his expedition through the Northwest passage, starting from the Atlantic side and after going along the north coast of North America emerged through Behring Straits into the Pacific, will be one of the attractions at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

Mr. A. Larson, 2000 E. Franklin St., Minneapolis, Minn., last fall was given up to die by the city hospital, and ordered into the incurable ward. He desired to go to the State Tuberculosis Hospital at Walker, Minn., but could not, since incurables were not received. As a last resort his friends secured for him a "Lung Bath" in January of the present year. This opened up some very bad places in his lungs, and it being the office of the "Lung Bath" to clear these out, which it did, and now he is a comparatively well man, able to go to work. Mrs. E. M. Young entertained a merry coterie of young people at her home Wednesday evening, complimentary to her brother, Henry Lehman, who has joined Admiral Evans' fleet and will leave next Monday evening for San Francisco, from which place he will go on duty. The living room was in white and green, while in the dining room red and green was used. In guessing contest first prizes were secured by Misses Urania Edmunds, Mattie Mortenson, Letta Kahl and Harry Dunning. Adieus were bidden at a late hour and all wishing Henry the best of success.

THE ORIGIN OF LIFE.

Mr. Percival Lowell, the Martian enthusiast, who is contributing a series of able articles to the Century magazine on "the planet Mars as the abode of life," devotes the article in the February number to the tremendous problem of the "Evolution of Life." His treatment of the subject exhibits much dogmatic assertion and reckless assumption of knowledge which, as yet, we certainly have not attained to. Believing with Professor Huxley that "the assertion which outstrips verity is not only a blunder, but a crime," we present a short examination of Lowell's paper in the light of the present day, which it is hoped will be instructive and entertaining to our readers.

As has been recently affirmed in these columns, what has been called "spontaneous generation" is quite unknown in nature, and so far as can be ascertained by the most patient and searching investigation, has no foundation in fact. Nevertheless, Mr. Lowell says in his article:

"On the fall of temperature to the condensing point of water, life began; protoplasm, the life matter, came into existence. In itself the organic molecule is only a more intricate chemical combination of the same elements of which the inorganic substance which preceded it are formed. Between the organic and the inorganic, increasing knowledge, by pushing back to greater simplicity the forms of life discovered, has tended to break down the barrier man had assumed to exist. * * * There is now no more reason to doubt that plants grew out of chemical affinity than to doubt that stones did."

While we have every reason to believe that evolution has taken place after life was started, we know absolutely nothing as to its origin, and while it is undoubtedly true that at the proper time life made its appearance on the earth, how it began, or whence it came, we have no evidence to show. The organic molecule is not "only a more intricate chemical combination of inorganic matter," it is the inorganic material, plus something else which escapes the test of the chemist. He cannot weigh or measure it, therefore he says there is nothing else. With a full knowledge of all the ingredients of life-matter in their exact proportions, all the arts of human ingenuity have hitherto completely failed to effect the "intricate combination" constituting the life-molecule referred to by Mr. Lowell's "only." Biological chemists have been working at this problem for the last 30 or 40 years, but no additional knowledge up to the present time has diminished the barrier which exists between inanimate and living matter—between life and not-life. The barrier has been assumed by mankind because it is there; it is not of human interposition; it is a fact of nature, and science has not yet interpreted its meaning. Mr. Lowell is doubtless aware of the slimness of his premises, in support of which he offers no facts of his own, but weakly refers the inquiring student to the works of the well-known German biologist, Haeckel, for proofs. But Haeckel is a poor guide for the truth-seeker, and is utterly discredited for his unscientific dogmatism among enlightened and conservative thinkers. It is true he built up his wonderful hypothesis and boldly called it "The History of Creation," which is written in such a matter-of-fact manner as to deceive the unwary into the belief that it is all gospel truth. But the fact is, Haeckel was an unscrupulous materialist; and where gaps occurred in his amazing argument he did not hesitate to invent whole families of creatures which had no other reality than in his fertile imagination But they were necessary to establish his theories. Professor Haeckel contended that "life, mind and consciousness, affection, art, poetry, religion, and all the other facts of experience to which, in the process of evolution, humanity has risen, are all nascent and latent in the atoms themselves. This is legitimate speculation, but science can only say we know nothing of it; and for a man of science to pretend, or assert in a popular treatise that we do, is essentially and seriously to mislead." So wrote Sir Oliver Lodge, who ranks second to none in the scientific world, and it will be profitable to quote him further in examination of Haeckel's pretensions as to the evolution of life from inanimate matter. So long as Professor Lowell confined his speculations to the planet Mars he was entitled to the respectful attention due to an expert on that subject, but his excursion into biology is unfortunate, as it will make moderate men chary of accepting his statements of fact in his own department.
